When planning and programming a facility, form, function, and context are all important considerations. By partnering with a furniture dealer and local artist we were able to give the facility and architectural firm everything they desired.

The architect designed and sought desks with a clean aesthetic and flowing lines. In addition, a local glassblowing artist was engaged to add illuminated pops of playful color. This beautiful facade wrapped around high-performing systems furniture frames which will allow for adaptability in future workflow.

The dealer's partnership with StudioCraft created a portfolio piece for everyone involved in the project.
