

CRAFTED FOR COLLABORATION

Utility Company
California

When a California utility company needed executive conference tables, StudioCraft developed custom modular solutions tailored to their spaces.

Designed to look sophisticated without feeling over-the-top, the tables are an example of how thoughtful craftsmanship can create impact while remaining conscious of public funding.

Each table features a striking starburst grain pattern that radiates from the center and precision knife-edge detailing. Integrated microphones and power support teleconferencing needs, and custom flip-up outlet covers align seamlessly with the surrounding grain.

The success of our original project led to two additional commissions, including custom horseshoe-shaped configurations. Through careful engineering and attention to detail, StudioCraft delivered durable, high-quality furniture for this government office.
