

PURPOSE MEETS PLAY

St. Louis Children's Hospital
St. Louis, MO

For St. Louis Children's Hospital, StudioCraft partnered with Canon Design to create custom nurse stations that balance clean, contemporary design with elements of playfulness.

A defining feature of the stations is an illustrated line motif that flows across the surfaces. This design element is carried throughout the hospital, inviting children to trace its path as they move through the space.

To achieve the designers' vision, our team worked through a careful sampling process, color-matching epoxy resin and using solid surface countertops for a seamless finish. The combination of simple forms, thoughtful material selection, and playful details creates an environment that feels welcoming and engaging for patients of all ages.

By collaborating closely with architects and experience designers from the earliest stages, StudioCraft transforms creative concepts into real-life solutions that support caregivers while creating meaningful experiences for patients and families.
